C. P. R. OFFICIALS VISIT

To Choose Sight for High Level Bridge Across the Saskatchewan

General Manager McNichol, Assistant General Manager J. W. Leonard, Chief Engineer E. H. McHenry, Superintendent Jameson of the Western division, and Superintendent Brooks of the C. & F., composed a party of C. P. R. officials who arrived in Edmonton Thursday night in two private cars. The party drove around the city, and also inspected the proposed site for the high level bridge across the Saskatchewan, west of the Hudson Bay fort. The party came to look into the high level bridge project. They expressed satisfaction at the progress of the town but would say nothing definite as yet regarding the bridge.

In Strathcona the party were met by the Strathcona town council and Board of Trade, but in Edmonton nobody turned out to meet them. There is a feeling here that we have gone to the C. P. R. a sufficient number of times, and it is now their turn to come to us.

OFF FOR CALGARY

Fort Saskatchewan and Edmonton Send Representatives.

The Territorial rifle shoot takes place in Calgary from Tuesday to Friday of next week. A very large number of marksmen have signed their intention of participating in the different events and there is every prospect of a highly successful tournament. Fort Saskatchewan sent a couple of strong teams down this morning under the charge of Inspector Demers, consisting of Sergt. Rudd, Corp. McLennan and Constables Lattimore, Walsh, Hopkins, Riddell and Nicholson. The following gentlemen will represent Edmonton, Wm. Pearce, W. E. Heist, Geo. A. Reid, A. Cameron and possibly L. O. Hooper. They will leave Monday morning and have entered in a large number of competitions. Edmonton has been without a range for several weeks and consequently the men are out of practice. We hope that Fort Saskatchewan and Edmonton teams will bring back a fair share of the prizes to be shot for.

EDMONTON FOUNDRY

T. J. Cornwall Purchased Brewster's Foundry.

T. J. Cornwall, of Cleveland, Ohio, a brother of J. K. Cornwall, of Cornwall and Bredin, Lesser Slave Lake, has bought Brewster's foundry. New machinery will be installed and other extensive improvements made in the foundry in order to enable the management to handle all kinds of machine work. If the business continues to grow as it has been doing the past few months, and there is every prospect of it doing so, an addition will have to be erected to the present foundry for the installation of more machines.

The foundry business in Edmonton is very extensive and must grow to great proportions with the development of the immediate district as well as that of the great north country.

BANK OF OTTAWA

The Winnipeg manager of the Bank of Ottawa is expected to arrive in Edmonton tonight or Monday night to definitely decide on the establishment of a branch of the Bank of Ottawa here. An option has been secured on quarters in Frank Gray's block, and as the option expires on September 1st, definite steps will have to be taken immediately. It is rumored around town that the bank will purchase a lot and will build instead of renting.

LABOR COMMISSION

Their Report Says There Should Be No Discrimination.

Ottawa—The report of the royal labor commission is made public. It is a voluminous document, the commissioners giving a most interesting digest of the evidence taken by them at different points in British Columbia.

The general conclusions of the commissioners, Chief Justice Hunter and Rev. Elliott Rowe, are of themselves exhaustive. They open by emphasizing the duty of employers and employees to prevent by all means in their power, the recurrence of strikes. It warns employers that the spread of unionism has altered altogether the relations of employers and employees, and that the latter now demand a reasonable share of the produce of their lab. It even goes further and foreshadows that in the near future these men will occupy the position of contractors with their former employers, and enslave the relations of ex-Superintendent Robins, of the New Vancouver Coal Company, and his men, as an illustration of what may be accomplished by a perfect understanding between the two.

The commissioners declare the right of men to belong to unions or not, to be unquestioned, while at the same time declaring the right of every employer to hire whom he chooses, as fundamental. On this basis, they declare sympathetic strikes wrong, and recommend their rigid repression.

They did not find, indefinitely, in regard to the right of strikers to recognition, but admit that they are the natural outcome of present industrial developments. They also hold that unions can best secure recognition by convincing their employers that it is to their interests to deal with union men.

Foreign control of these organizations, they declare, has generally speaking, not been inimical to the interests of Canadian members. With one or two exceptions they think that the present objections to foreign control could be overcome by Parliamentary enactment rendering valid and binding all agreements between employer and employee, irrespective of anything in the constitutions of international labor organizations.

The commissioners declare strongly against shop organizations, particularly the Western Federation of Miners, and the U. B. E., which have drifted into socialism, and state that they ought to be declared illegal. They express the opinion that the spirit of legitimate trade unionism could not be better protected while the irresponsible open and illegalistic tendencies should be prohibited and declared illegal. They, therefore, suggest a provision for the incorporation of trades unions, the constitution of which shall be such that no strike shall be declared without at least a two-thirds majority vote in its favor, voting to be by ballot; that no strike be declared which shall be in violation of any contract not already negotiated in the employ. They also state that all disagreements with employers be settled without interference of any persons residing without the Dominion, except, with mutual consent.

The commissioners also propose to make an offence for an employee to designate against, or discharge any member of an incorporated union for that reason. On the other hand, there should be no discrimination on account of non-membership or membership in a union, either by employer or by union men.

To protect benefit funds from lawsuits, in case of incorporation, the commissioners advise that these disputes must be tried, and that they should not be liable to answer any judgments other than those in relation to such funds.

To prevent expensive litigation, which a union would no be able to stand, the commissioners recommend that no appeals be allowed except with the consent of the judge appealed from or the court of appeals.

The learned commissioners approve of the above.

The best method of minimizing danger of strikes and lockouts by legislation, the judges, is by compelling publicly in the early stages of trouble, the strike or lockout should be allowed, unless at least 30 days' notice. When these do take place, a statement of the case must be served on the opposite party and filed with the registrar of the supreme court and minister of labor at least three weeks previously.

They strongly urge employers and employees to foster a spirit of collaboration, and encourage the establishment of boards of conciliation. Compulsory investigation might sometimes be employed to advantage. Compulsory arbitration is also approved as a last resort. They therefore suggest that the government in council to give authority in such cases to modify the parties by proclamation that unless the dispute is settled by a certain time, it will be referred to a court, which will have power to investigate, decide and award, such decision to be binding for the period not exceeding one year. This jurisdiction should not be open to be invoked by either party, but only exercised by the government in council, whenever the trouble has assumed dimensions which threaten to affect the whole country, and the trouble affects more than one province. The court in question shall be the exchequer court of Canada.

They warn workers against hastily uniting with organizations with the aim and object of which they are not familiar, and they urge caution in the selection of labor leaders.

They recommend that the foreign labor agitator be dealt with by statute and his offenses, if he has not received a trial in the country, should be made punishable by law. They also believe it necessary to penalize wanton violation of contracts as well as the sympathetic strikes.

The commissioners pointed out the tendency on the part of employers to combine in a blacklisting scheme, they declare to be the natural counter move to the boycott, the unfair list, the sympathetic strike, all of which they declare to be reprehensible and wrong.

Hours of work should be shortened they declare, so that man would have to work only long enough to make his employment a pleasurable exercise, instead of exhausting him.

The report concludes: "We feel quite free to admit that while much good can be accomplished by legislation, the labor problem, so called, is incapable of final solution, and it will be with us as long as human nature remains what it is, and present civilization endures."

DR. SPARLING INTERVIEWED by Press.

Dr. Sparling returned on Sunday from a trip to Edmonton in connection with the enterprise of starting a Methodist college in that important northwestern centre. He had been there in July, when steps were taken with this object in view, and when it was determined to offer the principalship of the new college to Prof. Riddell, of Wesley College, Jasper. On the second occasion Dr. Sparling accompanied Prof. Riddell on to Edmonton to meet him in charge of the new scheme. They arrived there a week ago last Wednesday and met him. After talking the situation over they agreed to meet again the next day at ten o'clock. In the meantime Prof. Riddell, who had been well during the journey, became ill. He came down at 10:30 on Friday morning, but had to go back again, when Dr. Smith and Dr. Shattock were summoned. They pronounced the case to be one of typhoid fever. The professor was anxious to return to Winnipeg, but it was feared that the length of the journey would be fatal for him and he was placed in a public hospital.

Prof. Riddell decided, from the study which he was able to devote to the circumstances, to accept the principalship of the new college, and as soon as he recovers, to devote his whole time to the work.

A teacher is to be wanted, who will at once put in the business, or commercial element. Hopes are entertained of getting, at no distant date, very quarters for the coming winter.

Dr. Sparling says that all parties in Edmonton distinct are most enthusiastic over the country and over everything that tends to promote its welfare. They have been most heartily supported by the college and they promised $4,000 for immediate payment, in order to secure buildings and equipment with which to open, in addition have guaranteed an additional $2,000 a year against possible deficiency, so that the financial arrangements for starting are considerably satisfactory. As soon as Prof. Riddell is sufficiently recovered, he will take up the question of a suitable building.

The country on the way to Edmonton is described as looking very fine; all the way up, especially from Red Deer to Edmonton, the scenes are simply magnificent. There has been considerable rain, but the weather has become bright, and the grass is beginning to turn. If there are two or three weeks more of

The Prince Albert Advocate says that Capt. Ross was reported stuck on a sand bar twenty-five miles down the river from Prince Albert on Monday, August 24th.

Planned—Engineer Czowski's survey party left Strathcona this week to make a third trial survey for the company's proposed lines east from here. They began their survey at the C. & F. wye and the line takes a course through the Beaver Hills north of the trial survey completed a few weeks ago and south of the one run last winter.

There will be a meeting in the town hall, Strathcona, on Wednesday evening next at 8 o'clock p.m. sharp, for the purpose of organizing a Poultry and Pet Stock Association. Mr. A. C. Rutherford has been elected president, chairman and open the meeting. The association will include all kinds of pet stock and it is hoped a goodly number of residents from both sides of the river will attend this meeting, so that the association may receive a good start from the commencement.
